This is Blair.

In this show, the tents will move, and even jump! It might surprise you.

The dancers will come out of the tents, one leg, arm, and head at a time.

The dancers will throw leaves onto the audience

You will see a forest with four tents and leaves on the ground. There are piles of clothes and welly boots on the stage.

You will hear birds singing.

The tents wake up and dance. Four dancers come out of the tents. You will see them dancing on the stage. They play games with each other and play with the leaves.

There are some moves like kicking and falling which might come quite close to you.

You will hear music playing.

You can sit on cushions, blankets, and rugs in front of the stage, or you can choose to sit in a chair.

You can move around on the cushions and blankets, but not on the stage where the dancers are.

The lights will get less bright when the show starts, and they will come on again when it is time to go home.

If you like, you can clap your hands at the end.

At the end, you can play with the leaves on the stage
if you like.
